

What Clients Are Saying About Dennis LaMountain & Camille Harris

Dennis is a lifelong coach. For him, it's not just, "I've got a contract goal and I'm through." It's connectivity, consistent nurturing, mentoring, and coaching. He takes his work with pride, and he cares about whether his work is effective and about helping the individual become a better person. And this is what makes him unique. If you want a consultant who will sell you the software - the package – you get that, and then they're gone. But I know I can pick up the phone and call Dennis and get his thoughts anytime I need him. He doesn't have to market himself with our company because he is known here for who he is. We know we can call Dennis when it is crunch time, and we'll get results.

Camille has been of tremendous inspiration and help to me both personally and professionally since meeting her in the fall of 2005. From the beginning of our acquaintance, she showed great ability in her knowledge of people and business skills. I have found her insight and suggestions to me as a business owner of tremendous benefit. She has given 100% in her coaching with me and, without a doubt, is one of the most beneficial people I have ever met when it comes to helping others with their business skills!
